Welcome

to the first edition of the London Wholesale Markets magazine, a guide to the six London Wholesale Food Markets: New Covent Garden, New Spitalfields, Billingsgate, Smithfield, Borough Market and the Western International Market.

The magazine contains information and contact details for every Tenant Company at the six Markets and is specifically published to raise awareness of the markets and all Companies operating at each site.

The publication also showcases the ranges of fresh produce, flowers, meat and poultry and seafood products and specialist imported food products available on-site to buy at the six London Markets.

The London Wholesale Markets magazine will be published bi-annually each year and In this issue we have a special feature from the Duchy Originals, The Mutton Renaissance Club and Dartmoor Farmers, promoting high quality british meat products. We are also including mouthwatering recipes from Michelin starred chefs Michel Roux Jr and Gary Rhodes, features on Taste Of London food festival and detailed information, site maps and listings for the six London Markets.

We welcome your editorial submissions or advertising for the next issue and to discuss any aspect of the publication or if you require details on circulation, editorial opportunities please contact us on: 01253) 319882 / 3 or e-mail: sales@mmcmmedia.com

DUCHY ORIGINALS
ORGANIC

In 1986, His Royal Highness decided to convert his own farm in Gloucestershire, Home Farm, to a completely organic system. Over twenty-five years later, Home Farm is not only a successful and viable working farm, but is a flagship for the benefits of a sustainable form of agriculture.

The Farm is a traditional 'mixed farming' operation growing combinable crops and vegetables, raising beef and sheep and producing milk from its dairy herd of Ayrshire cows. Milk is produced for the 'Duchy Originals from Waitrose' range, with meat from the Farm being supplied to Fortnum & Mason. The first product in the Duchy Originals range was the Oaten biscuit made with organic oats from Home Farm in 1992.

HRH is Patron of the Rare Breeds Survival Trust and has worked for many years to help preserve the rare native breeds of the UK, which have been replaced over the years by foreign breeds and breeding programmes more suited to intensive farming methods. Animals such as Tamworth and Large Black pigs, Irish Moiled, Gloucester, Shetland and British White cattle, as well as Hebridean and Cotswold sheep feature at the farm, and are highly prized by HRH for the quality of their produce and their natural affinity with the British farming landscape.

BILLINGSGATE

FISHMARKET

The Market rights of the City of London were based on a charter granted by Edward III in 1327 which prohibited the setting up of rival markets within 6.6 miles of the City, (six and two thirds miles being the distance a person could be expected to walk to market, sell his produce and return in a day).

In 1400 King Henry IV granted to the citizens the right, by charter, to collect tolls and customs at Billingsgate, Cheap and Smithfield.

Since then, the Billingsgate Market Acts of 1846 and 1871 and the City of London (Various Powers) Acts of 1973, 1979, 1987 and 1990, have confirmed the City's role as the Market Authority and laid down its responsibilities and rights, including the making of regulations, the collection of tolls, rents and other charges.

Billingsgate was known as Blynesgate and Bylynsagate before the name settled into its present form.

The origin of the name is unclear and could refer to a watergate at the south side of the City where goods were landed - perhaps owned by a man named 'Biling' - or it may have originated with Belin (400BC) an ancient King of the period.

Billingsgate was originally a general market for corn, coal, iron, wine, salt, pottery, fish and miscellaneous goods and does not seem to have become associated exclusively with the fish trade until the sixteenth century.

In 1699 an Act of Parliament was passed making it "a free and open market for all sorts of fish whatsoever".

The only exception to this was the sale of eels which was restricted to Dutch fishermen whose boats were moored in the Thames. This was because they had helped feed the people of London during the Great Fire.

Until the mid-nineteenth century, fish and seafood were sold from stalls and sheds around the 'hythe' or dock at Billingsgate. As the amount of fish handled increased, a purpose-built market became essential.

In 1850 the first Billingsgate Market building was constructed on Lower Thames Street but it proved to be inadequate and was demolished in 1873 to make way for the building which still stands in Lower Thames Street today.

This was designed by the City Architect, Sir Horace Jones, and built by John Mowlem. It was opened in 1876 and is now a listed building. In 1982 the Market relocated to Docklands.

BILLINGSGATE TODAY

The Market complex covers an area of 13 acres and is entirely self-contained. The ground floor of the building comprises a large trading hall with 98 stands and 30 shops, including two cafes; a number of individual cold rooms; an 800 tonne freezer store (maintained at a temperature of -26°C); an ice making plant and 14 lock-up shops used by processors, catering suppliers and merchants dealing primarily in trade sundries, non-perishables, poultry and potatoes.

The first floor of the building consists of offices for use by the Superintendent and his staff; the London Fish Merchants' Association, the Trade Union, the Fishmongers' Company's Inspectorate, the Sea Food School Training Association and for individual traders.

The Market is policed by Market Constables, appointed by the Superintendent and Head of Security, who are supervised by a Market Sergeant.

Day-to-day cleaning and maintenance of the site and facilities is carried out by a team of City of London staff under the direction of the Market Head of Maintenance.

Suet pastry method:

- Sieve the flour and salt together into a mixing bowl. Add the suet, breaking it into the flour as it is mixed in. Stir in the water to form a fairly firm dough. Wrap in cling film and allow to rest for 20 minutes.
- The pastry is now ready to use. Lightly flour any surface before rolling. When lining a pudding basin, always leave 1-2cm hanging over. When the basin has been filled, this can be folded in to create a border base to sit the lid on. Brush with water before topping with a circle of pastry for the lid.
- An alternative is to leave it hanging over. Sit the lid on top of the filling, moisten with water and then fold the border in.

Steamed steak and onion pudding

SERVES 4

Ingredients:

- 1 quantity suet pastry (see below)
- 3 onions, sliced
- 50g (2 oz) butter
- 1 dessertspoon demerara sugar
- 600g (1 lb) beef chuck or skirt, cut into thin strips
- Worcestershire sauce
- Salt and pepper
- Approx 150ml (1/4 pint) water

Suet pastry

- 300g (10oz) self-raising flour
- 150g (5 oz) shredded suet
- 200ml (7fl oz) water
- Salt

Steamed steak and onion pudding method:

- Butter and line a 1.2 litre (2 pint) pudding basin with the pastry as explained above.
- The onions can now be fried in batches, using the butter. It's important to fry them well, allowing the onions almost to burn in parts; this will create a natural bitter caramelising. As each 'load' comes to that stage, season well with salt and pepper and add a sprinkling of the sugar for a slightly sweet finish. Leave to cool.
- The meat must be lean so trim it well as you cut in thin strips. One of the most important stages of this dish, as with a Cornish pasty, is to season well. The good pepper bite lifts the whole dish. Once all of the beef is cut, season well and splash with a tablespoon of Worcestershire sauce.
- Now the pie can be filled, spooning the onions in first. Lay thin slices of beef, not overlapping, on top. Repeat the same process until the dish has been completely filled. Pour in the water. More can be added to bring it almost level with the top layer. Brush the edge with water and cover with the pastry. Cover with buttered and folded foil. The pudding can now be cooked in a steamer (or a colander inside a large saucepan) for 2 hours.
- During its cooking time, some gravy can be prepared, if you want it.
- After the 2 hours, remove the pudding from the steamer and rest for 10-15 minutes before turning out of the bowl.
- The water in the pudding will have taken on the juices from the meat and onions to give a well-flavoured liquor. This dish will eat well with simple accompaniments, such as good buttered carrots and cabbage or greens.

Smithfield

MEAT & POULTRY MARKET

In 1174 the site was described by William Fitzstephen, clerk to Thomas à Becket, as 'a smooth field where every Friday there is a celebrated rendezvous of fine horses to be sold, and in another quarter are placed vendibles of the peasant, swine with their deep flanks, and cows and oxen of immense bulk.'

It is thought that the name Smithfield came from a corruption of 'smeth field' Saxon for 'Smoothfield'. The City of London gained market rights under a charter granted by Edward III in 1327.

When a grant of a market was made, either to an individual or a municipality, it was usual to allow the grantees the right of taking fixed tolls in view of the expenses necessarily involved in erecting, maintaining and supervising the market. In 1852 the Smithfield Market Removal Act was passed and the live cattle market was relocated to a new site at Copenhagen Fields in Islington.

In 1860 the City of London obtained an Act of Parliament (The Metropolitan Meat and Poultry Market Act of 1860), allowing the construction of new buildings on the Smithfield site. Work began in 1866 on the two main sections of the market, the East and West Buildings.

These buildings were built above railway lines which had newly connected London to every other part of the country, enabling meat to be delivered directly to the market.

The buildings, designed by City Architect Sir Horace Jones, were commissioned in 1866 and completed in November 1868 at a cost of £993,816. The Metropolitan Meat and Poultry Act also authorised the development of the Poultry Market which opened in 1875.

This building was subsequently destroyed by a major fire in 1958 and was replaced by the current building in 1962. Further buildings were added to the market in later years, the General Market in 1883 and the Annexe Market in 1888.

The original layout of the East and West Market buildings was 162 stalls which were easily accessible to customers as they were open on most sides.

Today, the refurbished buildings accommodate just 23 units in the East Building and 21 in the West which, rather than being of a uniform size, have been tailored where possible to the tenants requirements. Units are divided into a number of temperature controlled areas.

Customers are able to walk along the central avenues choosing from the goods on display. If, however, they want to take a closer look inside the shop they must be dressed in clean protective clothing in order to comply with hygiene regulations.

SMITHFIELD TODAY

The current operational Market consists of 3 Grade 2* listed buildings. The East and West Market Buildings were renovated in the 1990s to meet the current hygiene standards, costing more than £70 million.

The City of London and all 42 meat trading premises have obtained full approval by the Food Standards Agency to operate under EU Hygiene regulations, 853/2004. Therefore, Smithfield is a world leader and sets the benchmark in terms of what a modern market should be, complying with both national and European standards.

More than 100,000 tonnes of meat and allied products pass through Smithfield each year. Buyers include butchers, restaurateurs and caterers, as well as members of the public. In addition to meat and poultry there are also cheese, pies and other delicatessen products available for purchase.

MAP OF SMITHFIELD MARKET

North Highland Initiative

The North Highlands of Scotland are very remote – to reach the very north you need to fly to Inverness and drive for more than two hours. But this part of Scotland encompassing Caithness, Sutherland and Ross-shire produces some of the highest quality produce in the country. It's not the easiest place to farm, but easy farming isn't always the best way of attaining quality produce. In the North Highlands, sheep roam freely and cattle graze on unspoilt pastures.

The Duke of Rothesay, as The Prince of Wales is known in Scotland, launched the North Highland Initiative (NHI) in August 2005 to promote and develop the economy and to support the rural communities of the North Highlands.

The NHI was formed as a direct result of his involvement in bringing together the farming community, local businesses and the tourism industry to try to address some of the challenges facing rural communities in the far north of Scotland by creating a powerful regional identity for the area through marketing.

NHI aims to deliver a price premium and point of market differentiation for beef and lamb farmers, and other food producers, by promoting the provenance of products from the wild, unspoilt, North Highlands of Scotland. Beef and lamb from the area are held in particularly high regard by retailers, the hospitality industry and consumers. Produce from the area is marketed under the 'Mey Selections' brand. Since its formation, a premium of over £1.5M has been returned to 'Mey Selections' beef and lamb farmers and to the company for the development of other 'Mey' products.

The Initiative is committed to ensuring stringent standards to produce the highest quality food, while at the same time ensuring a sustainable future for local farmers and food producers. The North Highland Initiative aims to get across loud and clear that produce from the North Highlands of Scotland is fantastic quality and worth seeking out on shelves,

WALKING TOURS

The City Guides run walking tours of Smithfield for members of the public on a monthly basis.

Hear how Smithfield meat market has changed throughout its 800 year history and experience its working life first-hand on this special tour. The walk takes you right into the heart of the Smithfield area where you will learn about the workings of London's last and most famous central market.

It explores how the area has evolved over the years, with stories of its long and turbulent history, the growth of the cattle market and the gaiety of the Bartholomew Fair. You will also get a chance to meet the traders and buyers that bring the place to life. Tours begin at 7am at Barbican Underground Station and end in West Smithfield. The tours last for approximately an hour and a half.

Places must be booked in advance, to do so please email:

The Cambrian Mountains Initiative was inspired by our President, HRH The Prince of Wales

The sweetest lamb... from the Cambrian Mountains of Wales

Cambrian Mountains lamb is produced by farming families as part of a project inspired by HRH The Prince of Wales. As President of the Cambrian Mountains Initiative, His Royal Highness wishes to help sustain traditional upland farms, rural communities and the natural environment. Our special, native breeds in the Cambrian Mountains are from traditionally 'hefted' flocks on farm-assured farms that use the old 'Hafod and Hendre' system. After a winter in the valley, the lambs are shepherded up to the hills for the long summer grazing on natural pastureland that is rich in varied grasses and herbs. This natural process results in delicious tasting, succulent meat.

Seasonal and sweeter

Our Cambrian Mountains premium quality lamb is seasonal and available at its very best each year from late June to January. Our product is free range with great conformation that offers succulent, juicy meat and a delicate, sweet flavour.

The meat is exceptionally flavoursome and the tender, versatile cuts appeal to professional chefs and discerning cooks alike. Slaughtered close to source Cambrian Mountains lamb provides consistent quality, optimum carcass utilisation and value. It is available from high class meat wholesalers, catering suppliers and quality butchers.

Succulent, juicy flavour

Top chefs understand superior meat that is produced in season and from animals that roam and graze freely. The distinctive flavour of Cambrian Mountains lamb arises from hardy, mountain animals that develop naturally at a slow pace on the hills where flocks roam and feed freely in one of Europe's most beautiful, unspoilt landscapes. The long summer grazing leads to lean meat balanced with just the right amount of fat for fine flavour and juiciness.

Whether served simply or in more complex and ethnic dishes, Cambrian Mountains lamb is very versatile and guaranteed to inspire the most creative of chefs and showcase their best cooking talents.

Since its launch two years ago, Cambrian Mountains lamb has featured on menus at many prestigious events. We are understandably rather proud that Cambrian Mountains lamb was served at the Golden Jubilee luncheon in Westminster Hall for HM The Queen in July 2012!

Provenance you can trust

Cambrian Mountains Welsh Lamb carries the coveted Protected Geographical Indication (PGI) logo, a trusted mark of authenticity and provenance. We also offer full traceability to individual family farms.

Our Cambrian Mountains brand identity incorporates a watercolour of the Cwm Berwyn valley in the Cambrian Mountains painted by HRH The Prince of Wales. The brand is a mark of superior quality and our farmers adhere to strict brand principles to ensure best practice and sustainable land management for habitats and wildlife.

Dartmoor Farmers

A watercolour by kind permission of HRH The Prince of Wales

The DFA (Dartmoor Farmers Association) evolved out of a local hill farming project set up in 2003 to ensure a viable future for farmers on Dartmoor. With the inspiration of HRH The Prince of Wales, support from the Dartmoor National Park and Duchy of Cornwall funding, the DFA was launched in 2008.

From the outset, the DFA has dedicated time and energy to preserving the long term sustainability of our local countryside and improving economic opportunities for the people who live and work within it. The DFA has been a great success embraced by over 50 farmers and families. It has provided a community based support system for Dartmoor hill farmers; helping them to adapt, innovate and stay commercially viable through collective collaboration.

Our participating members are producing slow raised, grass-fed native breeds of beef and lamb with guaranteed traceability and impeccable environmental credentials and there's great demand for it. Andy Bradford, one of four founding Director's of the DFA explains:

"My family has been a tenant farmer on Duchy land for several generations. Hill farming was in serious trouble and the DFA has breathed wealth and life into a declining industry with poor profit margins. The Prince of Wales has persistently advocated the benefits of sustainable agricultural production systems and it seems that finally, the contribution our grazing herds and flocks make to shape the iconic landscape of the Dartmoor National Park is being recognised by the local community and visitors to the area."

The DFA have set strict production criteria to ensure we continue to champion traditional farming methods with low impact on the environment; we insist that our members farm only native breeds of livestock and stipulate compulsory participation in Natural England's Environmental Stewardship Schemes which encourage farmers to proactively manage their land in ways that improve the natural landscape. By investing in the landscape and drawing visitors to the area, our rural economy is stronger and hill farming has a sustainable future".

The greater the demand for DFL beef, the more sustainable the Dartmoor rural economy will get; a conclusion that will be of benefit to the environment as well as this generation and future generations of British hill farmers.

If you are interested in buying DFL beef or you are considering Going Native with a herd of DFL Beastie Burgers please visit our website at www.dartmoorfarmers.co.uk. For Sales, please contact Fiona Robertson on 07818555183 or email info@dartmoorfarmers.co.uk.

NEW SPITALFIELDS

FRUIT & VEGETABLE MARKET

New Spitalfields Market in Leyton London is Britain's premier wholesale fruit, vegetable and flower market serving London and the Home Counties. The Market designed for business with excellent trading facilities is second to none.

Since relocating from its old congested site trading on public roadways to its new purpose built complex in 1991 New Spitalfields Market can today justifiably claim to be the largest revenue earning fresh fruit vegetable and flower wholesale market in the UK.

Sited with direct access to the motorway network, the ports and the airports, New Spitalfields wholesale fruit vegetable and flower market is well placed not only to serve north and east London but south east London, the Midlands, East Anglia and Kent. In fact, the whole of England and the near continent of Europe.

New Spitalfields Market the number one wholesale market in the UK, offers the widest range of exotic fresh fruit and vegetables sourced from all over the world, to meet the needs of a cosmopolitan London and beyond.

In turn there has been an increasing number of ethnic traders. Today the market has over 60% traders sourcing Asian, Afro-Caribbean, Turkish, Chinese, Egyptian, fresh fruit, vegetables and flowers. The evolution and mixture of tenants, particularly those specialising in exotic fruits and vegetables has been a welcomed development which has contributed to make New Spitalfields Market, the market for success.

NABMA Market of the year

"This is one of the most hotly contested categories in Market of the Year and one where the judges would have been delighted to make an award to each of the entries.

Ultimately the judging panel made the award to one of our iconic wholesale markets which is the largest in the UK and continues to offer local employment, a vibrant culture and has seen great improvements in waste management performance.

The market has coped wonderfully well with the impact of the Olympics and continues to serve London and the rest of the country. The Best Wholesale Market 2013 is New Spitalfields, London."

The market is open for trade from midnight to approximately 11 am Monday to Saturday. Traders are free to set their own opening times and many have stopped selling by 9 am.

Administration offices for all the businesses onsite may be open during normal working hours.

Catering businesses may have 24 hour lines available.

Chairman, Spitalfields Market Tenants Association

Wholesale Market of the Year – 2013.
The Jewel In The Crown
NEW SPITALFIELDS

I am honoured to be the Chairman of the Association at this particular time in the long and fruitful history of Spitalfields Market.

Since our relocation in 1991, the Market has changed, adapting, to meet the challenges of servicing a cosmopolitan London, the home counties and beyond.

New Spitalfields Market the number one wholesale market in the UK, offers the widest range of exotic fresh fruit and vegetables sourced from all over the world, to meet the needs of a cosmopolitan London and beyond. In turn there has been an increasing number of ethnic traders.

Today the market has over 60% traders sourcing Asian, Afro-Caribbean, Turkish, Chinese, Egyptian, fresh fruit, vegetables and flowers. The evolution and mixture of tenants, particularly those specialising in exotic fruits and vegetables has been a welcomed development which has contributed to make New Spitalfields Market, the market for success.

New Spitalfields is now multi-national and multi cultural in both customers and tenants.

The Tenant's Association recognising the value of promotion, plays a vital role in ensuring that New Spitalfields Market is today and in the future is "Second to None".

TENANTS LIST AT NEW SPITALFIELDS MARKET

PRESCOTT THOMAS

The company of Prescott Thomas Ltd, has a history going back well over 180 years, to the OLD SPITALFIELDS MARKET, centred in the heart of the City of London. Then as B. A. Prescott, it's sole aim was to make the people of London aware of the benefits of quality clean fresh fruit and vegetables.

It wasn't long before the Company was linked to both high standards and a dedication to service. The customer base was a varied and interesting selection, Hotels, Hospitals, Schools and London's Co-op Society, and it was quickly recognised that the needs of the growing population had to be met.

Today we can boast that we have achieved that request efficiently, serving a much larger customer base, six days a week throughout London and the Home Counties. With an increased choice of produce, numerous items, coming from distant parts of the world, South America, Asia and Europe, giving people access to meet the needs of ethnic communities.

Prescott Thomas the present owner bought the company in the year 2000, it still keeps a strong contact with the old family members.

Prescott Thomas have some of the most experienced staff in the business and with this advantage combine to offer a secure and dedicated service to the catering trade.

Our fleet of 30 refrigerated vehicles coincide with the cool chain policy implemented throughout the warehouses. This has enabled us to be awarded a global higher level BRC Accreditation, which in our industry is very difficult to achieve. The BRC requires us to keep and maintain a approved supplier list, this is the reason why I use Spitalfield Market as my source of supply I can see the performance of suppliers on a daily basis and I have used the market for over thirty years, and it speaks for itself.

With a nucleus of over 60 staff we increased our turnover by over 7 million p.a.

Communication with our Client base is through our monthly Newsletter which informs them of produce availability and Special buys. We are currently re-sampling our Web site with an access to all relevant details.

The Company takes pride in achieving a comprehensive service to a wide selection of prestigious accounts. Many, having been of long standing.

The Jersey Royal Company

WELCOME TO THE JERSEY ROYAL COMPANY

- Integrated growing, packing and marketing company farming on 390 acres
- Specialising in regional packing
- Managing 25,000 tonnes annually
- Long standing supply relationships with other local potato growers
- Ongoing multi-millionpound investment programme, including to date:
 - New and upgraded packing lines
 - Increased onsite cold storage facilities
 - New grading shed and grading equipment
 - State of the art warming room to manage stored crop from cold store

- Grown exclusively on Jersey for over 130 years
- The largest grower, packer and marketer of Jersey Royal new potatoes
- 20,000 tonnes produced annually, with up to 1000 tonnes exported daily at the peak of the season
- Traditional farming methods handed down through the generations eg. 120,000,000 seed potatoes planted by hand each year and the earliest slopes all harvested by hand
- The biggest brand in produce and the only potato with an EU protected designation of origin status
 - The Jersey Royal has this level of protection because of the unique way in which it is grown, cultivated and harvested and the PDO ensures that only Royals grown in Jersey can be called 'Jersey Royals'.

A clean start for New Spitalfields Market

Our client

As London's premier horticultural market, New Spitalfields Market offers the widest range of fruit, vegetables and flowers.

New Spitalfields Market houses the largest number of wholesalers and has the highest turnover, making it the UK's leading horticultural market.

Operating under a Royal Charter granted in 1682, Spitalfields Market moved out of the City in 1991 and now occupies a purpose built 31 acre site in Leyton, East London.

New Spitalfields Market consists of a Market Hall of 28,700sq.mtrs (309,000 sq.ft.) housing 115 trading units for wholesalers dealing in fruit, vegetables and flowers.

Our role

In August 2010, Countrystyle Recycling Limited was awarded a 7 year contract by the City of London Corporation for the combined cleaning, waste collection, recycling and grounds maintenance of the wholesale fruit, vegetable and flower market at New Spitalfields.

Under the contract, Countrystyle provides full on-site waste, organics and recyclables collection, sorting, handling and, where applicable, baling as well as full on-site cleaning and winter maintenance provision. These services are provided on a highly complex, busy site therefore health and safety is paramount and is closely monitored and enforced by the three main site stakeholders; the tenants, the City of London Corporation and Countrystyle.

Upon commencement of the contract, Countrystyle implemented segregation at source by the Market Tenants of waste, recyclables and organics. These materials are then managed as follows:

- Organic waste from New Spitalfields is taken to an off-site, on farm Anaerobic Digestion (AD) facility run by a tomato grower for waste treatment. The biogas generated is used to heat greenhouses with the produce grown then re-sold via the market, thus creating a closed loop recycling process.
- Broken wooden pallets and produce trays are shredded via Countrystyle's in-house facility at Ridham Dock, Sittingbourne for subsequent panel board manufacture or biomass fuel.
- The waste cardboard and plastics are sorted and baled prior to being recycled into new products by specialist organisations.
- General waste is sent to an energy from waste facility which produces steam to drive turbines and generate green energy (electricity).

We are delighted to have won the Best Wholesale Market 2013. The judges commented on the great improvements in waste management performance at New Spitalfields Market and this is in no small part thanks to the hard work and commitment from the team at Countrystyle Group. I would like to thank Countrystyle and the committed team at the Market for their continued assistance and I look forward to continuing our working relationship going forwards.

Nigel Shepherd, Superintendent, New Spitalfields Market

INFORMATION ON NEW SPITALFIELDS

New Spitalfields Market occupies an area covering 13 hectares (over 31 acres) and consists of a Market Hall of 28,700 sq.mtrs (309,000 sq.ft.) housing 115 trading units for wholesalers dealing in fruit, vegetables and flowers.

Four separate buildings provide 3720 sq.mtrs (40,000 sq.ft) of modern self contained units for catering supply companies. Over 900 sq.mtrs (10,000 sq.ft) of office space is also provided for fruit importers etc.

In addition, there are five ancillary accommodation units which house cafes, communal toilets and maintenance facilities. The services of a diesel/propane supplier, specialist pallet services and fork lift truck maintenance companies are also provided.

New Spitalfields Market has the highest number of wholesale traders of any horticultural market in the United Kingdom and the continual specialisation by wholesalers in exotic fruit and vegetables provides the greatest choice of these products of any Market in Europe. The Market site has extensive parking facilities providing over 1,800 spaces for customers, delivery vehicles and Market personnel, in addition there are over 100 spaces for the fleets of vehicles operated by the catering supply businesses.

The Market Hall houses 121 trading units for wholesalers dealing in fruit, vegetables and flowers. Modern facilities in the Market Hall include cold storage rooms, ripening rooms and racking for palletised produce. The site has extensive parking facilities for customers, delivery vehicles and market personnel.

FANCY A COOL HALF-TONNE OF EXTRA PAYLOAD?

Refrigeration is a heavy business, which is why you should consider the Isuzu 'Forward' 7.5 and 11 tonners.

Each model offers a massive half a tonne or more payload than some of our competitors.

You'll also get industry-leading reliability, outstanding fuel economy and a 3-year warranty with unlimited mileage, to boot.

Very cool indeed.

NEW COVENT GARDEN

FRESH PRODUCE & FLOWER MARKET

New Covent Garden Market is the largest fruit, vegetable and flower market in the UK. They are passionate about food and passionate about flowers and pride themselves on being the focus for food and flowers in London.

With over 200 businesses, employing over 2,500 people, the Market supplies 40% of fresh fruit & vegetables eaten outside of the home in London and is used by 75% of London florists.

They have a large range of different types of food and flower businesses serving London's best restaurants, cafés, schools, hospitals, florists and retail markets, amongst others. If you're looking for the best produce, delivered with the best service then you can do no better than to take a trip to New Covent Garden Market.

The Fruit & Vegetable Market wholesalers trade from around 00:00 - 06:00 Monday to Saturday, though some do open and close slightly later or earlier.

Cafés and Shops

If you need a bacon butty or a hot cup of coffee to keep you going in the morning, then we have loads of cafés to choose from. These are dotted around the site in both the Fruit & Vegetable and Flower Markets. There is also a Post Office on the West Bridge (Fruit & Vegetable Market) offering a full range of postal services.

Opening Hours

The Flower Market's core trading hours are 02:00 - 08:00 Monday to Saturday. Please note that not all wholesalers are open on Saturday so do check with your wholesaler before coming to the Market.

The wholesale distributors tend to operate 24hrs with their office hours around 07:00 - 15:00. The Market's Main Entrance is open 24hrs so you can access the Market site at any time night or day.

Entry to the market

If you're coming by foot then there is no entry fee. For each vehicle, there is an entry charge of £5 payable at the Main and Flower Market entrances. Payment booths are manned at all times when the Market is open.

If you use the Market twice or more a week (on average) then it works out cheaper for you to buy an Annual Entry Permit.

Parking at the market

Once you've paid to enter the Market, parking is free while you carry out your business. There are several car parks on site for both private and commercial vehicles and coach parking is available at the Main Entrance Vehicle Park.

The Covent Garden Tenants Association (CGTA) was founded on 6th April 1922. Since then its mission has been to represent the "official voice of the tenants within Covent Garden market".

Over the ensuing 88 years we have given unbiased legal aid, advice and counsel to thousands of market tenants, from fruit and vegetable sellers, to flower traders and the catering industry. The Association's activities have seen it negotiating with the Government, Unions and landlords. At all times we have been driven by the desire to represent our members' best interests. We have also always worked closely with the Covent Garden Market Authority (CGMA) since its creation in 1961 and ensured that we have maintained a strong and productive working relationship.

Today, we represent the large majority of market traders, both in terms of number and turnover. Our current members form an integral part of the British food industry. The market's annual turnover now exceeds £600 million and it provides 40% of the fresh produce eaten outside the home in the South East of England. In London, the market is a vital resource for the City's restaurants, catering outlets, independent retailers and fresh food processors. Beyond these schools, prisons, hospitals as well as hundreds of small family businesses are amongst the diverse customers who look to and rely on the market to supply their fresh produce.

The Tenants Association played an important role in the historic transfer of the market in 1974 from its original location in Covent Garden, where it had stood for 300 years, to its current home in Nine Elms, Vauxhall. Since this move the market has gone from success to success. Its overall turnover has grown by 25% in the last five years and by 11% in 2008 alone. However, the market site is starting to age and its capacity and layout no longer suit the growing needs of the tenants.

The Covent Garden Tenants Association is a non-profit association. All income goes towards covering standard business amenities. We happily support two prominent charities that we have been involved with for some time. Our national charity is the Anthony Nolan Bone Marrow Trust and our local charity is Trinity Hospice of Clapham. We also give generously to Help for Heroes.

Champions of innovation

The UK hospitality and tourism industry comprises internationally renowned businesses and a fantastic variety of small enterprises.

Together we contribute some 8% to the total GDP – that's around £115 billion per annum. The news recently that Britain hasn't slipped into triple dip recession will come as a relief to the whole sector.

Moreover, the 2.5% growth in our sector over the last year is a real confidence boost.

Restaurants have bounced back well in the last year. While consumers want the pound in their pockets to stretch further, overall our appetites for eating out have not been dampened as badly as feared either by the weather or by the economy. How can we build on this success going forward?

Restaurant entrepreneurs are champions of innovation and creativity with new brands, new concepts and menus. This innovation is particularly concentrated in London which is the incubator of small fast growth eating out brands - emergent eating out brands expanded in London by 42% in 2012.

As well as new brands, operators have been developing a host of other strategies from pop-up outlets to street food, world food buffets, new cuisine offers and healthy eating concepts.

For pop ups, start ups and established businesses alike what is becoming a real issue is the cost of raw materials. In the last six months, food prices have overtaken rent and rates in the list of major overheads facing UK restaurants. Global pressures affecting the price of wheat, meat and dairy have filtered through to the UK restaurant industry, and nearly three quarters (74%) of restaurants cite the cost of food as the major factor currently affecting menu prices. It now comes second only to staff wages, according to the Livebookings European Dining Index.

Innovation is not just about creating new concepts of course. The innovative ones are those who are changing their menus more frequently as they react to price changes; increasing their efforts to source locally as a way to control costs; re-structuring relationships with suppliers to protect against price changes where possible; and better engagement with customers to communicate change.

Of course, the hospitality industry is widely aware of the need to constantly scrutinise menus to find ways to cut out waste and reduce the costs of the raw materials. And help is at hand for example by signing up to the voluntary hospitality agreement to reduce food and waste. It's estimated by Wrap that careful management of waste could save the industry more than £720 million a year.

Businesses will also need to understand better the expectations of their customers about healthy options, quality and quantity so that they can deliver a great guest experience at the right price point.

So how can we help restaurants, and indeed the whole hospitality sector innovate and build on success? The answer comes in united effort to ensure the government listens to what the industry needs and that government helps us to help ourselves. The BHA is campaigning for fewer regulations for hospitality and would like to hear from restaurants about how it can further help support success.

Pull out box:

About the British Hospitality Association

The British Hospitality Association, incorporating the Restaurant Association, is the voice of the hotel, restaurant and catering industry. It has in membership almost every publicly quoted hotel group, many independent hotels, restaurants and clubs, major food and service management companies, motorway service operators and many local hospitality associations, as well as hospitality education establishments. In total, it represents more than 40,000 establishments.

The hospitality and tourism industry is fuelling jobs growth in Britain:

- Hospitality and tourism now accounts for over 10% of the UK's workforce and is the 4th largest employing industry in the UK, its growth significantly outpacing the rest of the economy
- The industry generated over one quarter of all new jobs created

since 2010 – (153,000 jobs) and is uniquely placed to generate new jobs for the 18-24 age group

Hospitality has moved up to 5th place overall in the World Travel and Tourism Competitiveness Rankings, but it is at the bottom of this league table on price competitiveness.

The BHA estimates that 300,000 new jobs are possible by 2020 if government and industry work together. The key findings of the British Hospitality Association's Report are:

The BHA has five areas of focus on behalf of its members:

Economy – to champion a supportive fiscal environment for our industry to prosper in the context of global competition.

Employment – to bridge the gap between education and industry to build a skilled workforce for hospitality
Intelligent regulation – advising government to reduce the burden of costly regulation at national and local levels.

Sustainability – facilitating an industry-led effort to develop economic, social and environmental success
Health – proactively shaping industry and public sector policy to enhance the wellness of consumers.

Want to benefit from a passion for performance?

Not a question you normally associate with Temperature Controlled Storage solutions, but Blue Cube have built an unrivalled reputation when it comes to delivering them.

Whatever the size of your commercial cold storage requirements, Blue Cube have proved that they can deliver by tailoring you the most cost-effective and environmentally-friendly solution and renting you the right equipment.

Smaller capacity cold stores can be designed to fit either outside - or inside - your existing premises, where space is constrained and can be as small as 8 feet x 10 feet or 2.5m x 3m. These units can be either permanent or portable.

Blue Cube can also design and install a larger capacity purpose-built unit, either as an extension to your existing facilities or within your existing facilities.

One recent example was for The Sandwich Factory, which needed an extension to its Packing and Chilling Room, as well as an additional Blast Freezer, all to be installed within its existing warehousing area and without any interruption to its everyday work routines. Blue Cube delivered ahead of time.

Shanks

making energy from our food

Organic and food waste turned into renewable electricity by Shanks.

Shank's new facilities are specifically designed to manage the growing amount of organic and food waste produced in the UK. We turn this organic waste into renewable electricity, reducing the UK dependence on fossil fuels. Our facilities will be producing enough electricity to power around 10,000 homes in the near future. The process helps avoid the damaging climate change impacts that would otherwise be produced if this waste is sent to landfill. Instead we are helping our customers play their part in becoming more sustainable and caring for the environment.

If you produce organic or food waste as part of your business get in touch with Shanks today and together we can transform this into renewable energy and digestate suitable for use on farms.

Mansfields

A COMPLETE SERVICE IN FRESH PRODUCE

Mansfields - A complete service in fresh produce specialising in growing premium quality fruit, and providing professional storage and packing services, 365 days a year.

Priding themselves on provenance of product and service, Mansfields have a significant advantage in the way of complete control of their Supply and Cool chain. With the capacity to store and pack all of their own fruit, freshness and quality are assured through careful picking, rapid chilling at source as well as gentle processing and packing, all of which are closely monitored and managed every step of the way. Consequently, Mansfields are able to achieve the finest quality and provide that "just picked" flavour and freshness for the end consumer, with complete traceability.

Hilverda De Boer

Hilverda De Boer is a company of Royal Hilverda Group

Flower pioneers since 1909

As one of the Netherlands' oldest, largest and most innovative exporters of cut flowers, the specific needs of wholesalers and florists no longer hold any secrets for Hilverda De Boer. Since 1909 the family owned company has been successfully active in a market that is constantly changing.

Dutch & global flowers

Nowadays this flower pioneer offers the largest stock of Dutch & global flowers, directly available to you via their webshop. Combined with the high service level from the four men strong UK sales team, Hilverda De Boer is the reliable name to cater all your flower needs. Whether it be a standing order, wedding flowers or a last minute delivery, every order is surrounded with the utmost care.

Be distinctive with Supreme Selections

To help you stand out in your market, Hilverda De Boer developed Supreme Selections: a special selection of the very best, crisp, fresh cut flowers that arrive on your customers' tables directly from the most reliable Dutch growers. Cut this morning and on their way to you the same afternoon.

To boost your business Supreme Selections offers you sales displays, which will create a distinctive presentation in your market or cash&carry. Who would not want to stand out like that?

Are your trucks up to the mark with a Thorough Examination?

Investigation is defined as time away from your business should serious vehicle handling equipment and operator/maintenance issues arise - responsible for maintaining increased safety standards and efficiency in practice. However, long shifts worked with vehicle working continuously often has an impact on any periodic maintenance/inspections required.

If you operate a lift truck you have a legal obligation to ensure that it is safe to use through examination. This applies whether you own, lease or hire the truck and involves equipment that applies to lift trucks with forks. Failure to comply could lead to prosecution, invalidation of your insurance and/or civil and criminal liability.

Thorough Examination is a strict, objective procedure which ensures consistent, high national standards for safe and regular maintenance of lift truck traffic in line with PUWER and LOLER regulations. Toyota Material Handling UK is accredited nationally by the CPCS (Construction Plant Trade Institute) to carry out these inspections.

As an industry leader, Toyota Material Handling UK is committed to supporting your fleet during its entire operational life. Offering national coverage, Toyota can ensure your truck is legal and safe to operate and can even examine through examination into regular maintenance schedules. This minimises the risk of any downtime or unscheduled repairs.

For further information regarding servicing or what you need to know about Thorough Examination contact Toyota service on 0800 090 3000 or visit www.toyota-uk.com/thorough-examination for more information.

NEW COVENT GARDEN FLOWER MARKET

New Covent Garden Flower Market is unlike an other market in the UK and is visited by 75% of florists in London for daily orders, top-ups or as their exclusive source of supply.

Retail florists, event florists, party organisers, interior designers, freelance florists and contractors alike all rely on the Flower Market.

Opening Hours

The Flower Market's core trading hours are from 02:00 to 08:00 Monday to Saturday. Some traders may open and close later, but the Flower Market hall closes at 11:00 every morning.

Please note that not all wholesalers are open on Saturday so check before coming to the Market.

The Flower Market is closed on Sundays.

Delivery to your door

If you're looking for delivery into Central London and within the M25, then most traders provide this service with their own vans delivering into London every day.

If you're looking for delivery outside the M25, then Flower Market Delivered is your answer!

Flower Market Delivered

Flower Market Delivered is the new service from selected wholesalers designed to save you valuable time and money and to bring you the best New Covent Garden Flower Market has to offer.

Simply place your order for flowers, foliage or sundries with these expert wholesalers in the morning, and your flowers will be delivered to you by courier by 12noon the following day.

If you can't get to the Flower Market, let the Flower Market come to you!

WESTERN INTERNATIONAL MARKET

FRESH HORTICULTURAL MARKET

The history of the market stretches back to the final two decades of the 19th century.

It all began at Kew Bridge one day in the 1880s, when a farmer's wagon loaded with produce from the fertile area around Cranford stopped at the Express public house to refresh himself and his horses. whilst there, he was approached by local people wishing to buy his cabbages, and the rest, as they say, is history.

The spot quickly became a favourite shopping place for growers, and a regular market emerged, initially on three days a week. Following a public enquiry in 1892, a two and a half acre site to the west of Kew Bridge was acquired, and thus started the old Brentford Market.

Extended in 1906 and 1921, the market flourished and gained its reputation as one of the finest in the country until in the late sixties, it became apparent that it had outgrown its location. A new site was found near Heston, and construction of a new market commenced, to be known as Western International Market. One day in spring 1974 the traders packed up their belongings, and a procession of trucks and lorries moved up the recently built M4 Motorway towards their new home, just a few hundred yards off junction 3.

The new Western International was an instant success, due to its exceptional location and accessibility, the unique family atmosphere and friendliness of the traders and, not least, the quality and freshness of its produce.

Weathering the storms brought about in the early nineties by the changes in trading laws, aggressive marketing by the supermarket giants, and changing patterns in consumer eating and buying habits, Western International has maintained its position as the premier wholesale fruit, vegetable and flower market in the capital, and remains one of the strongest in the country.

Naylor Farms Lincolnshire Cabbage King

Naylor Farms, situated near Spalding, Lincolnshire, has been a quality producer of vegetables and daffodils since the early 1930s. The farm is spread over the Moulton Seas End and Spalding areas of South Lincolnshire.

It is a family run farm which is now in its 3rd and 4th generation. The family consists of Brian and son Simon Naylor who both manage all aspects of the operation.

The business supplies food processing plants and wholesalers with top quality produce.

WESTERN INTERNATIONAL TODAY

Located near Heathrow Airport less than a quarter mile from the M4 Motorway and just off the A312 Hayes Bypass, Western International is owned and managed by the London Borough of Hounslow.

A strong and active Tenants' Association represents the interests of the traders in a variety of areas and participates in the joint management of the site.

Our 75 wholesalers offer the freshest and most competitively priced fresh horticultural produce anywhere.

Specialised needs of buyers are being met by a large number of firms importing and distributing exotic fruit and vegetables, and a well-stocked flower and plant market.

CATHEDRAL PALLET TRUCKS LIMITED

BOROUGH MARKET

SE1

Borough Market is more than a place to buy and sell food. It's a unique corner of London that captures our rich culinary history.

A source of quality British and international produce, we have a reputation as the country's most renowned food market.

It's a place where people come to discover the tastes, aromas, textures and colours that only fresh, seasonal food can offer.

Borough has long been synonymous with food markets and as far back as 1014, and probably much earlier, London Bridge attracted traders selling grain, fish, vegetables and livestock.

In the 13th century traders were relocated to what is now Borough High Street and a market has existed there ever since.

In 1755, the market was closed by Parliament, but a group of Southwark residents raised £6,000 to buy a patch of land known locally as The Triangle, once the churchyard of St Margaret's, and reopened the market.

The Triangle, where you'll find Northfield Farm and Furness Fish and Game, is still at the heart of the market today.

The market still feeds this core community and has grown to over 100 individual stalls.

Alongside the original fruit, veg, bakers and butchers we now sell a huge variety of British and international produce.

All of our traders share a love of food and many of them make, grow or rear the produce they sell so now, just as in 1755, our customers know exactly where their shopping has come from.

The market ensures high standards of produce by employing a food quality panel of impartial experts who ensure that the taste, provenance and quality of foods sold here are all regularly measured and maintained and we support small traders to meet these standards.

With its vibrant and friendly atmosphere, Borough Market will always be at the heart of the local community.

It's unique standing within the area has recently been marked by a Blue Plaque, voted for by the people of Southwark, marking its place as London's Oldest Fruit & Veg Market.

We work with small businesses and social enterprises, providing them with guidance and SUPPORT. We seek higher values in food production. The Market is a place to find inspiration, to meet people and to LEARN something new.

Throughout its rich HISTORY, the Market has adapted to meet the needs of London and will continue to do so, but always staying true to its unique identity.

HRH the Prince of Wales re-opens Borough Market's Three Crown Square

Today, Thursday 14th February, The Prince of Wales and The Duchess of Cornwall officially re-opened London's Borough Market and the historic Three Crown Square market hall.

The Royal visit comes as the Market sees the end of three years of construction work from the Borough viaduct - Thames Link project, works which saw traders temporarily re-located and Three Crown Square dismantled to make way for the viaduct. A testing time for the market but thanks to the commitment of traders and customers alike not a single day's trading was lost during this time.

The Royal couple took a tour of London's oldest food market, including the newly restored market space, meeting some of the longstanding employees and traders whilst browsing the fresh produce on offer in the new layout before enjoying a traditional cup of tea at Maria's Market Café.

A blessing of the Market by the Dean of Southwark Cathedral then followed before the Prince rang the newly installed Market Bell to signify the start of the trading day and officially open the market, a tradition that dates back to the Market's origins in the 1750's.

Donald Hyslop, Chair of the Trustees of Borough Market said:

"Borough Market has adapted to meet the needs of Londoners for hundreds of years and continues to do so. The re-opening of Three Crown Square signifies the next chapter in our long and rich history – providing a world-class, ingredient led, market space to meet the needs of a 21st Century London, whilst staying true to our unique identity."

Borough Bounces Back

On Thursday 7th February 2013, Borough Market is set to start the next chapter in its long and rich history as Three Crown Square – the Market's largest trading area – reopens.

After more than three years of admirable stoicism on the part of traders and customers alike, the disruption caused by Network Rail construction comes to an end, and the heart of Borough Market turns back from a building site into one of the most impressive market spaces in the country.

The impasse caused by the construction work has given the Market the opportunity to think carefully about its future form and function. The result is a new layout designed to enhance the shopping experience and make navigation more intuitive, but without removing the thrill of discovery. The wide passageways and impressive new stalls of the refurbished Three Crown Square will be devoted purely to produce—including fruit and vegetables, meat, fish and cheese—which will make shopping for ingredients far simpler, while the other trading spaces around the Market's periphery will retain their colourful and eclectic blend of different foodstuffs and flavours from all over the world.

As well as helping to shape the future of the Market, the re-opening is doing much to celebrate its past. The spectacular Victorian glass and ironwork roof from Three Crown Square has been lovingly restored before being returned piece by piece to the reconstructed space, with over 90 per cent of the original structure retained.

The first thing that will strike visitors to the reopened Market will be how spacious it feels after several years of making do. The Market feels like it has expanded, upgraded and broken new boundaries, when all it has really done is come home.

Donald Hyslop, Chair of the Trustees of Borough Market said:

"Borough Market has adapted to meet the needs of Londoners for hundreds of years and continues to do so. The re-opening of Three Crown Square signifies the next chapter in our long and rich history – providing a world-class, ingredient led, market space to meet the needs of a 21st Century London, whilst staying true to our unique identity."

Market Trader Lizzie Vines, from the Wild Beef stall said:

"Looking ahead things are very exciting, we have moved to our new stall in Three Crown Square and although it was tiring it's a great space and we are thrilled. It's hopefully onwards and upwards".

Discover the Market and its new surroundings from 11am on 7th February 2013.

Quality Irish Pork Sausages

IT'S TIME FOR LONDON

To Discover McWhinney's Irish Pork Sausages

At McWhinney's we never promote a 'New and Improved' recipe, because unlike others, the recent meat scandal hasn't forced us to change what we use in our sausages. Since 1898 we've used only real cuts of pork meat, and McWhinney's have been trusted by families for six generations.

If you're yet to experience a McWhinney's Irish Pork Sausage, call us on 028 91 271 811 or email mark@mcwhinneys.com...
